

Lapland Ultra

Friday, 03 March 2006

Last Updated Saturday, 24 February 2007

"You are welcome to take part in our 100 km Ultra Marathon Race a unique experience in the light of the Midnight Sun. How far do you want to run? Thanks to the course-stages (at 38, Marathon, 64 and 81 km) a beginner can approach this adventure without having to decide for the whole distance (100 km) from the start. By finishing at one of the stages a competitor will be mentioned in the ranking-list and receive a medal. The course is official (IAAf) measured ."
Lapland Ultra

What is this? a professional marathon or just a local game for all to join. I seems that it is like a familiar event with a touch prestigious seriousness. I mean who actually what to run in the middle of the night for up to 8-14 hours?

Seriously, I like the idea a lot! Lapland offers light 24 hour around the clock, the midnight sun make this a interesting and exciting run, or walk if you prefer that. The night with all the animals along the road, the endless forest and waterways....It's a classic...;-)

Lapland ultra - their website

Author
/David